Tote Bag Scam Targeting Local Businesses

Alamogordo, NM Friday, May 4, 2018 The Alamogordo Public Library is warning about a possible scam. It was brought to the attention of the Alamogordo Public Library that local businesses have been receiving calls from a company called, Totes to Go, claiming to be calling on behalf of the Alamogordo Public Library. They are telling the unsuspecting business that they are soliciting donations on behalf of the library's summer reading program and if the business sponsors, their logo will be included on a tote bag given to the children in the program. Neither the Alamogordo Public Library nor the Alamogordo Public Library Foundation have ever worked with this company and the library has never given out tote bags for their summer reading program. If you receive a call from Totes to Go or any other company claiming to be calling on behalf of the Alamogordo Public Library, please hang up and do not send them any money. Official donation requests for the library's summer reading program were sent out on library letterhead in February and the contact for the request is Ami Jones, the Alamogordo Public Library's Youth Services Librarian.
